1953

Information on COMPLETE STORIES, ROMANCE MAGAZINE, POPULAR MAGAZINE, THE IDLER, BLUE BOOK MAGAZINE, and the Munsey periodicals first appeared in FANTASY COMMENTATOR, edited by A. Langley Searles, and copyrighted 1944 to 1953. Permission has been granted for use of this material whose source is gratefully acknowledged.

Information on WEIRD TALES (1923 to 1938 only), STRANGE TALES, ORIENTAL STORIES, MAGIC CARPET, TALES OF MAGIC & MYSTERY, THRILL BOOK, and STRANGE STORIES appeared in WEIRD TALES INDEX, published by Julius Unger in 1942. Permission has been given to reprint this work and thankfully received.

The above indices were compiled by William Evans whose industry must be complimented, and the results favorably received by all fantasy fans.

The Incomplete listings (contents page) are from the files of Howard Funk whose assistance is gratefully acknowledged.

GOLDEN FLEECE and the remainder of WEIRD TALES (1939 to 1953) were compiled by the publisher.

A CHECKLIST OF FANTASTIC MAGAZINES was given an initial impetus toward completion (?) through lists furnished by John C. Nitka: given a sustaining push by Raymond Isadore: and laboriously completed by the...

| A CHECKLIST OF FANTASTIC MAGAZINES | 121 |

A prefatory note of explanation is most necessary for the entries in this book. The index, from WEIRD TALES through STRANGE STORIES, is a summary of the contents of each, by consecutive issues. The name of the cover artist follows the date of each issue (the story illustrated is indicated by an asterisk), and the Volume and Number completes that line.

All of the other titles listed are not complete indices of their contents, but simply abstracts of much, or most, of the fantasy that appeared in their pages.

3

Blank spaces mean no issue. Some magazines were given only a number, and a few are given a number here only, for the purpose of making some sort of entry. Quarterly issues are designated by initials in a following space--W, S, S, F. Winter, Spring, Summer, Fall. The latter sometimes had A, for Autumn. Titles with the notation (undated) have their entries most always on the month of issue. National origin is also noted, except for magazines from this country.

The checklist is not complete, as can easily be seen, but presents much information unknown to most fantasy fans. The lack of complete knowledge on BLACK CAT may, perhaps, be atoned for by presentation of data on THE CLACK BOOK which had a slightly more fantastic tinge than its famed contemporary.

Acknowledgment, and grateful thanks, is due many fans for assistance on the checklist. These are not in order of descending importance, but as they come to mind. Miss Frances Gann; John C. Nitka; Gordon Rix; Raymond Isadore; Howard Funk; Howard de Vore; Norman V. Lamb; Walter Coslett; Eldon K. Everett; Sigvard Ostlund; Vol Molesworth; Forrest J. Ackerman; Samuel A. Peeples; Thomas Moulton; Douglas Mitchell; Glenn Lord; William Austin; and many others for additions, corrections, suggestions, and inspiration.

Also, Thanks! to a neighboring friend who fed the insatiable maw of my mimeograph machine.

Good hunting!

Some of the titles in this checklist are self evidently incomplete, and a very few present no information as to dates. These magazines seem to have little fantasy content and will be of interest only to completist collectors who may finish the listing for their own amusement.

NOTES ON THE MUNSEY PERIODICALS

ALL-AMERICAN FICTION: Started as a monthly November, 1937; became a bi-monthly with the March-April, 1938 issue; combined with THE ARGOSY after the September-October, 1938 issue.

ALL-STORY: This began as a monthly on January, 1905 and continued as such through the March, 1914 issue. With the next number (March 7, 1914) the magazine became a weekly and changed its name to ALL-STORY WEEKLY. With the May 16, 1914 issue it combined with THE CAVALIER WEEKLY to form ALL-STORY-CAVALIER WEEKLY. One year later, on May 15, 1915, the name was changed back to ALL-STORY WEEKLY. With the July 17, 1920 number it ceased publication, combining with ARGOSY WEEKLY to form ARGOSY-ALL-STORY WEEKLY.

ARGOSY: THE GOLDEN ARGOSY was started as a weekly on December 9, 1882. Six years later, on December 1, 1888, the title was changed to THE ARGOSY and the size was reduced. On August 29, 1891 it returned to larger size, continuing thus until it again changed back to small size and at the same time became a monthly in April, 1894. It continued as a monthly until September, 1917, becoming the ARGOSY WEEKLY with the October 6, 1917 issue. With the July 24, 1920 issue it combined with ALL-STORY WEEKLY to form ARGOSY-ALL-STORY WEEKLY. This name continued until October 5, 1929 when it combined with MUNSEY'S MAGAZINE to form two titles: MUNSEY'S ALL-STORY MAGAZINE and ARGOSY WEEKLY. During the next decade the name of the latter was gradually changed to ARGOSY. With the January 18, 1941 issue it returned to large size. The October 4, 1941 number was the last of the weekly ones, the next being dated November 1, 1941 and being the first of a bi-monthly series. With the January number it returned to small size once more, after having turned monthly on the previous July (1942). On September 1943 it returned to large size and adopted a radically different story policy, resulting in the eliminating of fantasy from its pages. At that point this index stops.

CAVALIER: THE CAVALIER started October, 1908 as the successor to the second section of SCRIP BOOK. It became THE CAVALIER WEEKLY after the publication of the January, 1912 issue, the first weekly number being dated January 6th. On May 9, 1914 it published its last issue, combining thereafter with ALL-STORY WEEKLY to form ALL-STORY-CAVALIER WEEKLY.

LIVE WIRE: This was the continuation of OCEAN, starting on February 1908. Publication ceased after the September, 1908 issue, when it was absorbed by SCRIP BOOK.

MUNSEY'S MAGAZINE: Some time during 1889 this was begun as a weekly. With the October, 1891 issue it became a monthly, continuing to present fiction and factual material until the October, 1929 issue. After that it combined with ARGOSY-ALL-STORY WEEKLY to form ARGOSY WEEKLY and MUNSEY'S ALL-STORY MAGAZINE. Under the latter title it published no more fantasy.

OCEAN: This magazine started on March, 1907. After the January, 1908 issue the name was changed to LIVE WIRE.

SCRAP BOOK: This was begun in March, 1906 as a reprint magazine. Later it began to print original fiction and on July, 1907 was actually divided into two sections, the second devoted primarily to fiction. This became THE CAVALIER after September, 1908, section one being continued independently under the original title after the split until January, 1912, when it was absorbed by THE CAVALIER to become THE CAVALIER WEEKLY.

This information is from various issues of FANTASY COMMENTATOR.

One final note: in the index, serial stories are listed on the date of the first installment of each with the number of parts following the title in parentheses.
